

Promotion Points for Technical Certification

Beginning 1 October 2003, promotable specialists and sergeants of the Corps of Engineers and seven other technical branches earn up to 50 promotion points for advancement by passing a test or job-competency demonstrations required for technical credentials. Soldiers can keep track of the program by accessing Credentialing Opportunities On-Line, the Internet site at <https://www.cool.army.mil> called COOL, this Army Continuous Education System Web site provides information on how soldiers can fulfill requirements for civilian certifications and licensure related to their Army jobs.
